

We Need a New US Post Office in the Central District!

We, the undersigned, call on the US Postal Service to replace the recently-closed facility at 23rd and Union with a new Central District Post Office.

For years, the 23rd and Union Post Office served tens of thousands of people who lived in Central Seattle and who depended on it for buying stamps, mailing and receiving packages, maintaining postal boxes, and getting help with mailing services. Now the entire area from Mount Baker to Montlake is effectively a post office desert, which especially affects working people, the elderly, communities of color, and struggling small businesses. The Central District urgently needs a new post office!
